Sisters and brothers of the Bay Area Research Collective (DRAGON) and the New Dawn Collective (The People United).

We are the Peoples Intelligence Unit, Future Forces, of the New World Liberation Front. For now our prime purpose is to analyze the development of any/all principled & alternative information sources. We share a common ideology of all units of the New World Liberation Front.

Our concern is the potential development of rift between NDC and BARC that we must seek to avoid. We fully support the development of principled peoples communications bases by BARC and NDC. We would like to offer our analysis and information so both collectives and the people can be better informed. Our analysis-information follows.

Issue #17 of the People United (pg. 15) contained a letter about BARC. We must strongly suggest that this letter be considered as unprincipled. We are weary of those who would offer support and or criticism as if they were comrades, and at the same time manifest oppressive subjective ideologies--unprincipled ideology. We cannot accept support of criticism which given in such an oppressive perspective as "crazed chick" and "into underground destruction" (as if this individual's goal were objectivity) when clearly this individual's analysis was subjective and unprincipled. We ask NDC to clarify its particular reasons (if any) for printing that letter? Also why the apparent reply(?) following that letter seemed to be out of context with the information given to the people?

We now offer this additional information to the people for informational analysis, some of which will be speculative projection.

A few days after the rally of May 18, 1975, which was co-sponsored by BARC, UFW, and O of A, a letter appeared in the Daily Cal entitled "Radical Chic" by an individual whose criticism now forms a familiar pattern. The example we have given also follows such a 'pattern'. This 'pattern' follows the dynamics of subjective analysis, such as verbal (subjective) trashing and insinuations beyond any concept of comradely support. We raise these theories regarding this 'pattern'.

1. This 'pattern' may be only relative to our imaginations as unfounded speculation.

2. It is just an inherent characteristic of subjective analysis.

3. It is part of a continuing attack by big forces to sow division and alienation-isolation amongst us.

4. That are the first three theories are surely factors, but that the third theory in particular must be given particular consideration.

We would now like to point out that there are specific strategic advantages in having more than one principled communication source.

1. With a protracted war in mind, a multi-based communication base will better survive big attacks and continue to serve the needs of oppressed people.

2. Also each segment of the base can give comradely support/criticism self-criticism to the others as a check on objectivity, theory, strategy etc. in bringing information to the people.

3. For certain reasons, such as area or cultural perspective, specific segments of the communications base will be more accessible by certain underground and aboveground organizations and individuals, than would be another segment or a single base.

Today we bombed the ~~SEA~~ Federal Building in Seattle. We attacked in the spirit of slaughtered brothers in Attica and comrades in Chile. We attacked in solidarity with those who still live to carry on the struggle, on both sides of the bars, and both sides of the national boundaries the pigs use to divide us.

We send our revolutionary love and greetings to comrades of the BLA, SLA and all other ~~PA~~ Peoples Forces, MHR and other forces of the Chilean Resistance, BARG and the New Dawn Collective, and all our sisters and brothers inside and outside.

On September 9, 1971, the men of Attica Prison rose up to challenge the authorities who were subjecting them to the inhuman treatment accorded to prisoners; they did what any human being with self respect would have done under similar circumstances.

Four years ago tomorrow, Nelson Rockefeller's hired goons pumped 2200 rounds of ammunition outlawed by the Geneva Convention for use in international warfare upon the unarmed brothers in Attica and their hostages. State troopers killed 43 men that day; afterwards the State indicted 62 surviving prisoners for "crimes" ranging from murder one to possession of contraband.

by the Military Junta in Chile, September, 1973

Two years ago yesterday, the CIA-manipulated "Chilean" military overthrew the elected government of Chile. They began a reign of terror that has continued to this day, based on mass executions and torture of thousands of Chileans. Despite pervasive right-wing terrorism the revolutionary movement continues to grow and prepare to return Chile to the Chilean people

MLF out of respect for their strategy, tactics, and courage, but wish to extend our love and support to all revolutionaries, aboveground and

The REB contingent will continue its practice of regularly planned and executed acts of rebellion involving several members, and is planning a large action. We are not adventurers and will give a great deal of thought and analysis to our actions and communiques. Our communiques will be distributed to what we consider peoples' media, and distributed directly to the people in less orthodox ways. We accept the responsibility for all security relating to our communiques and it is not necessary to retype them or try to keep them from the pigs.

We will not announce our actions publically since we intend to test new concepts of security that could involve the identity of one or more of our ~~MLF~~ comrades becoming known. We will analyze our concepts of security in a communique to our MLF comrades in response to their August 23rd the description of their relationship with Popoye Jackson. This lengthy analysis is being prepared now.

The REB contingent has had conclusive proof for a number of allegations made by our MLF comrades about Popoye, but were unsuccessful in getting this information to you. We were able to make our ~~MLF~~ information available to a peoples' court that met on June 30th, and their analysis - analysis, and join with the peoples' court in their conclusions. We commend the peoples' court and - most importantly - our MLF comrades, for their ~~MLF~~ actions in this matter. Now that all questions have been answered, we must begin the more laborious process of learning the lessons of

Because we still intended to release her if our demands were met, there was skepticism within the group that Tania might misrepresent the sex question upon her release. Some comrades feared she might say we raped her or forced her into sexual activity because she was afraid not to cooperate. However, Tania swiftly made it clear to us that this would not be the case. However, it soon became clear to everyone that Tania's understanding of this problem and her commitment to struggle with us ~~made~~ decreased the potential for reactionaries to exploit this issue.

We are also proceeding on the assumption that your intention is not to sensationalize this issue or to degrade a process of revolutionary development. There are many people who still cannot comprehend Tania's swift evolution from sheltered bourgeois to freedom fighter. A perfect example of the decadence of the present social order is the sick notion that revolutionary consciousness can be attained at the price of a mere fuck. It would be too easy to say that Tania did not interact sexually with cell members prior to being ^{A member of the SLB,} ~~taken in to the cell,~~ that her relationships broadened only after her decision to "stay and fight." This is not the case. Therefore it would be inexact to contend that her decision was totally free of any personal sexual or non-sexual consideration of her relationships with cell members. However, only the most foolishly naive bourgeois mentality could deduce that

Within the cell-structure there is often a need to create new institutions. For us the question of sex was one of these.

at first we tended to place the most imp. on the milit-
-emphasis placed on struggling on one-on-one level intense military training - got ourselves into such a head military state-of-mind that we lost control of our conditions and, in fact, were controlled by them instead of vice-versa. Because of our male orien-tation we tended to think of the battle against sex as a secondary struggle. We failed to assert ourselves as leaders - to protect our self-interests & women - instead of seeing ourselves as revolution-feminists ~~we were~~ (or perhaps we did see our sex as such, but we sure didn't act it!) we behain a way that Firestone describes as "Ladies Aw, of the Left." We were so selfless... so womanly that we would put everyone else's struggles for li-eration ahead of our own as we fought. This horribly backward way of thinking was, of course, result of years of 'female' upbringing. It was so hard to see what was happening, because we were aware of the nature of our oppression in the cell.
We were just so grateful to the men for taking time to teach us (so we could help save their asses
We had been too isolated to solve the problem ourself and only in the last year have we begun to underst.

It is a basis for fighting closely with groups who have other primary focuses of oppression. We fully understand that if we fight a revolution in this country we ^{will create} ~~may gain~~ a socialist economy and ^{destroy the system} ~~abolish~~ racism and classism but unless women push, shove, and fight like hell for Feminist Revolution, sexism could very well flourish after that revolution.

Feminist Revolution means: a) freedom and self-determination for all women, b) cultural and economic (socialist) revolution, and c) recognizing the need for armed struggle to win a revolutionary war. Women are demanding freedom and our right to organize and define our own strengths and abilities. However, we cannot have total self-determination without freedom from cultural and economic exploitation that keeps us and all oppressed people unable to control our own lives and livelihoods. We believe that Feminism insures the freedom of all people because it encompasses all segments of society and it cannot work unless all people are culturally and economically revolutionized. We fully realize we cannot win a revolutionary war without armed struggle. Armed struggle is the basis for beginning the military/political strategy necessary to wage a successful campaign for victory. Armed struggle does not in and of itself insure the liberation of women. However, it is an extremely important component of revolution, a revolution in which women want to be victorious. (Consequently, we must prepare ourselves to exert leadership, ~~our~~ ingenuity, and skill in the armed front.)

Women are looked to for leadership on all levels of struggle, in both the mass front and the guerilla front. We have already seen fine examples of this leadership throughout the world, and have been deeply inspired by our sisters in Vietnam, China, Latin America, Africa, the Weather Underground and Black Liberation Army. Through their active participation in the struggle revolutionary women provide their sisters with righteous examples of strong, of the stigma of sexism and other forms of oppression. Men must understand that women who fight as Feminist Revolutionaries are fighting for their freedom ^{with} unlimited determination. They must see that the freedom of women equals the freedom of all people because it ends the basic power imbalance in human relationships, which is the sanctioned domination of one-half of the people(women) by the other half(men).

Economically, sexism is a potent tool of the ruling class. It is used to keep half of the people down, working for wages lower than men's with greater job insecurity. Through the institution of the nuclear family, it keeps women isolated from each other and unable to share common experiences and problems. The nuclear family bestows on the economy a free, domestic labor force that keeps its male workers well-fed and taken care of, negates the need for government-sponsored daycare centers, and gives oppressed male workers their own slave to dominate so that they won't take their frustrations out on the ruling class men.

* We see Feminist Revolution as our primary focus as women revolutionaries. by Fem Rev. we mean Feminist Revolution insures the liberation of women. It has three ~~primary~~ primary targets against which we fight. They are: a) sexism, b) classism and c) racism. We see sexism as the basic form of oppression, refined through the centuries until its development into the sophisticated, all-pervasive form we have today, which gives the illusion of freedom at times without really giving any at all. We realize this sad fact and we are going to have to take our freedom.

All the struggles of the oppressed people must work hand in hand. As oppressed people, women have a real stake in revolution (much more than white men) and can, therefore, better identify with and understand Third World and class struggles. Although the big media characterizes the Women's Movement as white and middle-class and, to a great extent, it is, we consider Feminist Revolution a unifying platform for all races and classes of women, and

Its main organizing tool was consciousness-raising implemented through the rap group structure. The "under-30" Women's Movement was spontaneous and far-reaching. Thousands of women came together to share their experiences of isolation from each other and discovered a common ground of oppression. Through sisterhood, they began to reject the cynicism and alienation of the predominant white male culture. They began and are continuing to develop and build their own culture-in music, theatre, painting and other art forms. Countless discussion and grassroots organizing groups sprang up around the country that focused on women-centered issues such as (birth control, day care, ~~and~~ abortion and sterilization.) for biologic oriented

-The Feminist Movement has given rise to a tremendous upsurge of energy among women and great revolutionary potential. Its repercussions have hit every sector of society because women, as a group, cut across class and racial lines. Because women are in every stratum of society, ~~we~~ we have unlimited potential to unify all groups of people if they, themselves, are unified.

Women now recognize that ~~they~~ we are oppressed and that there is a vital need for change. To achieve our liberation, women must now begin to develop and coordinate a strategy through which this can be done. We, the women in the SLA, feel strongly that we must develop a strategy for Feminist Revolution.

And of the 10 years

The basis for women's oppression contains two aspects: a) cultural and b) economic. Culturally, women are kept isolated from each other in nuclear families and relegated socially to a position of subordination to one male or, at the least, to the ideals of a male-dominated society. We must erase from our minds our preconceptions of ourselves as inadequate, inferior, and passive people. We need to do this apart from the men, to learn to love and struggle with each other, without the constant interference and/or approval of men. At the same time, we must try to struggle and work ~~with~~ with men to fight for and build a new society that allows us all to ~~be~~ be free

Women and Youth are the most progressive elements among white people today. The need for change is felt most directly by these two groups. The white youth are disillusioned with the materialistic world of their parents' generation and want some real values to embrace rather than the phoney patriotic pap their country hands them. Women are besieged daily in all areas by sexism. The Women's Movement, since its resurgence in the sixties, has been continually struggling and growing to deal with the root causes and implications of sexism in peoples' lives.

In the 1960's, the Women's Movement was reborn. The roots of rebirth were nurtured in the Civil Rights Movement in the early sixties, to a great extent. The original Women's Movement in the U.S. had begun through women's participation in the Abolitionist Movement in the 1840's. In both cases, women came together with men to fight in the name of other oppressed people and through that struggle and their treatment in it, came to recognize their own oppression.

The year 1966 saw founded the first women's organization in years called the National Organization for Women (NOW). This group works on a fairly traditional political level, lobbying for political and civil equality for women. Its membership is basically white, middle-class, professional women who have a material stake in the establishment and who want to see it continue but weighted more toward their side. Meanwhile, a younger, more loosely-based Women's Movement was growing at the same time. It rose up in reaction to the New Left, white male-dominated politics of the Civil Rights and Anti-War Movements and also due to a rising national interest in women. The younger movement was anti-leadership and anarchistically structured.

while we all had a degree of consciousness about progress ways of relating to men, as heterosexual women we still had subjective fears of relating to men in a strong and un-dependent way. ~~As a radical lesbian~~

Gabi had no attachment to relating to men in any bullshit way. We ^{the women} struggled to build close personal relationships among ourselves. We wanted to be able to go to each other for love and support, instead of feeling that we had to go to "our ^{main} man" for this.

We had to ~~smash~~ ^{smash} the dependencies created by monogom sexual relationships, and to do this we had to destroy monogomy in the cell. Monogomy only serves to reinf. maledsupremacy and the oppression of women. Monogom means that "the men wear the pants."

We had to destroy all the attitudes that make people think that they have to be monogomous; fear and passivity, ^{false sense of} security, power-trips, attitudes that make ~~men & women~~ men & women afraid to relate openly and honestly to each other, that force women into ^{accepting} a passive role ~~is~~ and force men to competing/each other to see who ^{can} ~~will~~ be the most macho. Attitudes that cause us to feel a false sense of security in sex roles that are oppressive to both men & women, but especially to women who are expected to sublimate their needs and desires.

On the collective level, our primary struggle was to break down monogomal personal relationships. While we all had some degree of consciousness about progressive ways of relating to men, ~~the heterosexual women~~ we still had subjective perceptions of relating to men in a strong & independent way. This was particularly hard for the heterosexual women, although, because of the heavy emphasis on the military (and therefore the men), Gabe and Loya were having trouble too. We realized we had to smash the dependencies created by monogomal ^{sexual} relationships, and to do this we had to destroy monogony in the cell.

Monogony ^{creates conditions which} only serves to reinforce male supremacy and the oppression of women. We began to destroy the attitudes that made us think that we had to be monogomous; fear and passivity, the false sense of security, jealousy and power trips. These are the same attitudes that keep women & men from relating openly & honestly to each other. That force women into accepting a subservient role, and force men to compete w/ each other to see who can be the most man.

It all sounds too simple the way it's been run down. In fact, breaking down traditional sex roles ~~is not so~~ and establishing recognize women's leadership as an oppressed group (as

There was tremendous strength and energy coming from ~~the women~~ ^{us} that had been suppressed before, and because of this the whole group was really moving ahead w/ incredible speed. But we ^{still} weren't moving (as a collective) as far as we should have been. The men were dragging their feet. ~~They were not moving forward at all!~~ This sexism made them afraid of our strength in spite of the fact that they would could objectively about ~~what~~ how great it is. Subjectively they felt threatened. This sexism also kept them isolated from each other; competing w/ each other instead of ~~supporting~~ ^{supporting} & helping each other grow.

insert) ~~the women~~

Our orientation was totally toward the men in the cell.

We realized that, as a group, we were male oriented, and that most of us put very little effort into ~~relating to each~~ struggling and relating to each other, and discovering or strengthening as women.

The struggle against sexism in The SLA has gone thru a process of evolution and development over the past two years. Jan. 10, 1974 was a turning point in our history. The loss of our 2 comrades forced others to go underground, and put us on the defensive. Our focus became intensely military. (conditions we created ourselves - conditions not reversible)

Almost all our energy was put into developing military and survival skills. In this environment the men were able to assert themselves ^{in traditional} as "instructors" and "leaders," while the sisters struggled to become guerrilla soldiers. But, w/out realizing, our concept of a female guerrilla was male defined. We were so selfless (so "womanly")... we were willing to put every other liberation struggle ahead of our own.

We weren't totally occupied w/ trying to be as good as the men. Struggles against sexism did take place on a one-to-one level, but we hardly ever brought these struggles to the collective level. *

~~Very quickly certain contradictions were brought to light and out of these contradictions we developed a position as women.~~

The main reason for this was the fact that ~~the sisters~~ ^{we} ~~too much emphasis on~~ focused too much energy away from ourselves, and as a result, we failed ^{to unite among ourselves} to unite as strong women, and develop our position.

W/in the cell is one of the most difficult longest struggles. Because like racism, it is a foundation of capitalist oppression

We had to expose this contradiction and begin to resolve it both ^{among the women as} ~~as a group of women~~ group, and in the cell as a whole.

We saw our conditioning to thinking of exclusive personal ~~relationships~~ ^{relationships} as the ideal as being a major barrier to dev. a strong collective that makes exclusive personal relationships ^{seem desirable}

1) our conditioning toward desiring ~~exclusive~~ ~~personal relationships~~
2) our conditioning to ~~passively accept~~ ^{accept} oppressive sex roles.
that makes us feel "comfortable" accepting

In order to defeat ^{combat} ~~defeat~~ ~~defeat~~ we had to attack ~~the~~ ~~attention of~~ ~~aspects of our bourgeois~~ conditioning which makes male supremacy possible

This battle would have been lost for sure if ~~the~~ ~~we~~ ^{we} hadn't been able to unite ~~against~~ ~~them~~ around our common oppression as women (in other words, if we hadn't ~~to~~ put our theory in practice).

The struggle against sexism in the SLA has gone through a process of evolution. The capture of our comrades on Jan. 10, 1974 put us on the defensive forcing several other comrades underground.

Our changed situation compelled us to place primary importance on obtaining survival skills, and the atmosphere became intensely military. Struggle against sexism continued on a one-to-one level, but these struggles just weren't as important as getting the men to teach us about weapons. As women our primary focus was on becoming strong female guerrillas. But without realizing it, our concept of what a female guerrilla ~~was~~ should be was male defined. We were so selfless... so womanly... we were willing to put every other struggle for freedom and self-determination ahead of our own!

A major contradiction soon became obvious ^{to us}; we were struggling to become revolutionaries, but continuing to relate to each other in a reactionary way. We had to expose this contradiction and resolve it both among the women as a group, and in the cell as a whole. In order to combat sexism we began attacking two aspects of our bourgeois conditioning that make male supremacy possible: 1) conditioning that makes exclusive personal relationships seem desirable (e.g. monogamy) 2) conditioning that makes ^{people} feel "comfortable" accepting oppressive sex roles. This battle would have been lost for sure if we hadn't been able to write around our common oppression ~~as~~ -

~~Very quickly~~ ^{also} The contradictions in being urban guerilla and being women without taking a strong stand on the liberation of women. became very obvious very quickly, and out of these contradictions we were able to develop our position
Monogamy

As women, as ^{guerilla} revolutionary fighters we see that our fight is for freedom and self-determination of women. We cannot allow our ~~struggle~~ ^{struggle} to be co-opted by the male dominated left (MDL).

We soon realized that we had to deal with the contradiction of struggling to become revolutionaries while at the same time continuing to relate to men in a traditional way.

This unity ~~was not possible~~ ^{incorporating} had to be totally uncompromising because ~~putting~~ ^{that} our demand for freedom and self-determination for women into all aspects of our lives, meant tremendous changes in the cell had to take place.

- this means that as ^{women} revolutionary ^{ies} women we cannot divorce our struggle from the socialist revolution and the liberation of all oppressed ~~people~~ nations

- can't hope for revolution to free us but must fight for our freedom as women ~~&~~ throughout the struggle

Q. How was sexism in cell dealt w/?

After Jan. 10, 1974 our primary orientation was survival.

- heavy concentration on the military esp. survival skills

Contradictions arose from this orientation

- men took role of teachers

- women perceived as strong etc. but, there was the feeling that we had to be as good as men

- The concept of the female guerrilla was too much male defined

Struggles anti sexism didn't take place on collective level at this time cuz we felt survival aspect was ^{most} important

- one-one level achieves only temporary results in a cell

As a result of conditions we created for ourselves the women weren't able to coalesce into a strong unit, and we failed to develop a position for quite a while

Out of these contradictions, however that we developed our position,

As women we see our primary focus to be the liberation and self-determination of women — in other words, if we hadn't put our theory into practice. This unity had to be totally uncompromising because incorporating our demand freedom and self-determination for women into all aspects of our lives meant that tremendous changes in the cell had to take place.

the problems & contradictions of the past, and really started to deal w/ them. It takes struggle and study & struggle for us to unite and support each other — because it's a fact that ^{the} men feel threatened by us. Not because they consciously want to oppress us w/ machismo, but because subconsciously they still have leanings toward relating to women in a tradit. (i.e. sexist) way. We realize, however, how much we can accomplish as a group of strong, unified revolutionary women struggling against sexism in cell situation.

from these we dev. our position

Believe it or not, many aboveground Left groups & organizations do not think that fascism is the order of the day in America. The purpose for studying this section is to understand the historical & present context which revealed us to agree w/ George Jackson's analysis, & ~~position to these groups who are way that fascists~~ new now, thereby understanding why we are underground ~~people~~.

When we tried to think "what are our strengths as women ~~that we can add to the collective~~" it was actually hard to come up with anything ~~!~~ because we had thought of ourselves for so long as being weak, in a position of taking instead of giving, as ^{passive} ~~inactive~~ instead of active members of the cell. The ways that weren't even obvious to us — in insidious ways that we had to search for in the simplest things we did.

We wanted to build relationships that weren't oppressive to anyone. We wanted to be sensitive to each other's needs on all levels. Exclusivity — the key to monogamy — can't be allowed in a collective → it's totally anti-collective. We are trying to develop ways of relating that are progressive, and will be some kind of model for future society.

problems of selfishness, jealousy, personal resentments are to be dealt w/ quickly, either individually or collectively — necessary thing was "structured" per se but we all tried to be sensitive to each other's needs.

Struggles against the most blatant forms of sexism took place on a one-to-one level. Virtually no struggles along this line took place on the collective level. There were 2 reasons for this: first, we ^{misleadingly} thought/believed that one-on-one was more "respectful" and more productive, and 2nd we felt that survival & military issues were more imp. and deserving of collective attention than sexism and its resulting problems.

The struggle against sexism in the SHF we gone through a process of evolution.
Jan. 10, 1974 was a crucial point in our history. The capture of our 2 comrades well hurt us, and threw us into a panic ~~is~~ we lost strong soldiers, and it put us on the defensive. Several other comrades we joined underground. The atmosphere became extremely intense.

Our changed situation compelled us to place primary importance on ^{obtaining} survival & military skills. Heavy emphasis was placed on the military aspects of revolution, which brought to light certain contradictions, ~~esp~~ in the area of sexism. The men took on the traditional roles of "instructors" and "leaders" while the sisters struggled to make themselves as "good" as the men.
While the women were perceived as being "strong" (in an abstract sense), w/out realizing it, our concept of what a female guerrilla ~~is~~ should be, was male defined... we were so selfless. (so womanly) that we were willing to put every other struggle for freedom and self-determination ahead of our own.

At first the women put a lot of energy into trying to help the men get all together. But we finally realized the way we were doing this was crazy! We were trying to help them even though they weren't making any effort to struggle w/ each other.
We wanted to work w/ them, but we just ended up by protesting about nothing for them to get it together.

How was sexism struggled w/in the cell?

How did you go about struggling to build non-oppressive personal relationships

How do you deal w/trying to destroy sex roles that oppress both women & men
— non menopony

Several of the women in the cell, in particular Gail and Lora, had strong backgrounds in the Women's Liberation movement and radical lesbian politics. What kind of leadership did these women provide in the struggles against sexism that you went through?

Helped us to expose our male orientation, and we began to think of ourselves as strong revolutionary women, instead of "almost-as-good-as-the-men (but not quite)." ^{what we perceived to be}

Too easy for us to fall into not dealing w/sexism, but putting too much emphasis on ^{what we perceived to be} our inadequacies — the men w/out realizing that sexism & male supremacist attitudes encouraged this way of thinking it was safe for them to think of themselves as our teachers and political commissars — an ego booster that objectively they knew was wrong, but subjectively it supported their traditionalist self-image & was a comfortable role

Our struggles in this area continue now w/even greater fervor but still not easy to destroy the oppressive sex roles which capitalism has created and supported in order to ~~maintain~~ ^{maintain} the economic strangle-hold of the ruling class over the proletariat.

The area of personal relationships we had problems w/our perceiving ourselves in traditional ways, as "gentle women" aggressive leaders, soldiers, organizers, writers and speakers. Reactionary women like Gloria Steinham or government collaborators like Jane Alpert must be identified and denounced. We cannot afford to be liberal in regard to our own sex when certain members work against our struggle. Education about women revolutionaries, both past and present, is a devastating weapon against the enemy. It raises people's consciousness as to the potential of women in revolutionary struggle and increases women's militancy and confidence to join the battle.

Out of the Women's movement we see emerging the potential leadership of white people in the coming revolutionary struggle. Throughout the past ten years among white people, women have shown consistently the most initiative and creativeness. They have effectively united the personal with the political, a crucial aspect to revolution in a culturally alienated and economically imbalanced society.

Tania decided to stay because of some magical sexual satisfaction, or because of a strong personal attachment to an individual. Anyone who would use this rational to pick up the gun would be sadly fooling themselves and their prospective comrades. We have seen this happen to people, but they soon become disillusioned because their commitment is so shallow. Tania has certainly, by her actions, proven that her commitment ~~XXXXXX~~ was forged from a political rather than a personal outlook. The comrades she ~~was closest to~~ felt the most personal solidarity died fighting in L.A.

Q. What was the groups overall policy concerning the question of sexual relationships within the cell structure?

A. Our position was one of conditional practicality. page 6&7 We knew from experience that it is like to live in an underground cell. It is a very isolated ~~XXXXXX~~ situation sometimes, because you don't have as much freedom of contact with people outside the cell, people that are old friends or people that you might meet during the course of your daily work. You can't just let people drop by a safehouse to socialize. So as far as sex was concerned we had to get ~~all~~ most of our sexual and personal needs met by comrades within the cell. Everyone realized that at this time there was no room for exclusive relationships because each of us had to help the other comrades ~~meet~~ meet their sexual needs and maintain harmony within the cell. We wanted to learn how to love each other on an equal basis and on many levels, including sexually. We tried not to focus on just one or two people who we might have subjectively liked the best.

We had a need to develop collectively ~~XXXXXX~~ in many areas

A. To fully understand what happened you must view this process within the context of the unique conditions of the lifestyle of the urban guerrilla. No matter how well the guerrilla blends in with the surrounding community her life, by necessity, must be qualitatively different from that of the average person. * ~~over~~ minning we provided for Tania's basic needs: shelter, food, clothing, medical attention and news from the outside. Although we considered sex a basic human need, our commitment to not exploit ~~the prisoner~~ ^{her} sexually coupled with her overall status as a POW denied Tania the freedom to have sex with another person. But later on these conditions changed, partly due to her own initiative but also because of our growing love and respect for her. As she became more integrated into the day to day aspects of cell life we tried to treat Tania as an equal. It was only natural that with increased personal interaction between Tania and members of the cell these relationships would also develop sexually.

~~There were all aware that we~~
~~We could see a closeness/developing~~ ^{see} between Tania and Kahlo which we wanted to progress in a revolutionary way. We wanted Tania to understand how we felt about building close personal relationships within the cell and the revolutionary responsibility of comradeship we all had to each other. ~~we didn't~~

~~feel XXXX~~ ^{necessarily} our sexual practice was a model for the people to follow, that in fact it was based ^{largely} upon the practical realities of cell life. We wanted her to understand why we were committed to building non-exclusive personal relationships within the cell.

We were not making a sexual revolution, but merely trying to adapt to the needs of all the individuals in the cell. In practice this ruled out monogamous sexual relationships. There was no structure to follow, no rules, no systemized rotation of partners. We tried not to place demands on each other, but to learn and become sensitive

Q. ~~XIXXIXX~~ You stated earlier that the sexual practice within the ~~SLA~~ ~~XXXX~~ was not meant to be a model, that it was based upon a ~~XXXXXX~~ practical response to the conditions of cell life. ~~XXXXX~~

7. Supporters of fascism; The lower middle-class because they feel threatened by the upward thrust of the lower classes most acutely, and that part of the middle class that can be drawn in by the "nationalism" bullshit and "authoritarian personality" syndrome. Also the labor elite.

8. "Fascism is ultimately an international movement" because it is capitalistic.

Historical Struggles:

1. Italy, Germany (George) and USA (George and STT).

2. Neo-colonies; The "fascist solution" when applied to countries that are under imperialist domination (e.g. Latin America) can sometimes bring that country into conflict with the parent nation's ruling class if the attempt to control the economy means a drop in imports. The second phase of fascism will be the main force. Neo-colonies can't move into the third phase because "the regimes are imitative...they don't reflect the real interests of the nation's elites, but rather the interests of the ruling elites of the parent imperial nation."

to each other's needs. Understandably, there were often conflicts and struggle. Sex was important to all of us but nowhere close to being a primary concern. We didn't generally deal with resulting problems, (selfishness, jealousy, personal resentments) by calling collective meetings, unless the individuals involved couldn't work it out themselves or with the help of another comrade who could serve as an objective counsel.

When there was agreement that Tania would be free to function sexually if she so desired, we explained to her that, even though she was not a member of the cell, our collective code of behavior would apply to her also. In practice ~~XXXX~~ this meant ~~XXX~~ that ~~we~~ = should make a commitment to develop a personal relationship with the entire cell, not just with one or a few individuals. ~~It was pointed out that~~ this did not mean that ~~we~~ ~~we~~ would have to fuck everyone or do anything against ~~our~~ wishes. It meant that ~~we~~ would engage in struggle with ^{each other} to develop mutual respect and understanding based on honesty and commitment to change. Sex was only part of the overall process.

Q. Was there any struggle within the cell when it was suggested that Tania be allowed to have sex with cell members?

A. Yes, there was some degree of struggle around this question. Some of the comrades didn't feel that it would be correct to allow a POW to have sex with any member of the cell. This was criticized as being too mechanical an approach to the question. It was pointed out that sex was an integral part of cell life and that we were trying to help Tania understand who we were as people and that we had some trust for her ~~as a human being~~ and that we were concerned for well being.

FASCISM

Many above ground groups and organizations do not think that fascism is the order of the day in amerikkka. The purpose for studying this question is to understand the historical and present conditions which have led us to agree with George Jackson's analysis and say that fascism is here now. Without understanding this crucial concept, it's impossible to relate to why we are underground.

Headings: Blood In My Eye, George Jackson (section on Fascism).
Seize The Time, June 1974 (George on cover), center section (A- H).

Basic Tenents:

1. Fascism is: monopoly capital, corporativism, economic reform, controlled capitalism, scientific capitalism. We can never have a complete definition because it is in constant motion. Fascism will mold itself to fit any particular set of problems that threaten the ruling class.

2. Fascism emerged in the early 20th century as an anti-communist, anti-bourgeois decadence, pro-political stability (i.e. reactionary movement).

3. Enough time has passed so that we can analyze it:

a. The crisis that precipitated it: existing conflict between the proletariat and the ruling class prens the 20th century. WWI unrooted many people causing disillusionment and unrest in Italy, and Moussolini formed the fascio. Russian Revolution, 1917.

b. The hostilities that caused it's early development: Intellectuals supported fascism because they saw a national breakdown coming that they felt was destructive-- they felt that their status was threatened by the Russian Revolution with it's "disrespect for any art form or scientific activity that did not serve the state."

4. Three forms of fascism:

a. Out of power; tends to be revolutionary and subversive, anti-capitalist and anti-socialist.

b. In power but not secure; the sensational fascism (goose step, etc.) when the ruling class is able to suppress the people's vanguard party.

c. In power and securely so; openly traditionalist. Some dissent may even be allowed.

5. Central-positive mobilization: "A higher degree of centralization of power and control. It occurs when the capitalist industrial sector of a particular society succeeds in altering the preexisting equilibrium in its favor."

Positive mobilization: "The working masses begin to organize and exert increasing influence in the realm of politics."

6. Emphasis on "reform through government intervention" as opposed to "laissez faire."

MARXISM-LENINISM-AND THE-THEORY

In their early writings Marx and Engels attempted to develop a philosophy which got at the foundation on which political systems and human interactions were organized. This process led them to formulate the philosophy of dialectical and historical materialism. This way of thought was first concretely crystallized in their joint work, The German Ideology, written in 1845 and 1846. The materialism of Marx and Engels represented a new stage in the socialist movement, the stage at which socialism became scientific rather than utopian. But Marx and Engels did not stop with the mere creation of a philosophy; for as Marx said, "the philosophers have only interpreted the world differently, the point is to change it."

From this point Marx and Engels moved in two directions. Marx undertook a comprehensive analysis of capitalism (Capital) in order to show that within its own laws of motion, capitalism bore the seeds of its own destruction. Both of them, working individually and together, also put a lot of their energy behind analyzing various historical and contemporary struggles such as the French Revolution of 1789, the aborted European revolutions of 1848, and the Paris Commune of 1871. Their purpose in analyzing these struggles was to show each event fit into the overall perspective of international proletarian revolution and how an improved understanding of dialectical materialism could have altered the tactics and strategy of the participants in these struggles.

LENINISM

In the interview below Stalin refers to Leninism as "Marxism of the epoch of imperialism and proletarian revolutions." This epoch was brought into existence by two events: World War I and the Russian Revolution of 1917. World War I clearly demonstrated that the entire world had been touched by the expansion of capitalism. The World War represented the first battle in which the combatants were fighting over how to divide up the wealth, resources, and territory of the whole planet. It was the culmination of the development of capitalism into a worldwide system of imperialism.

The advent of imperialism changed the nature of any revolution which occurred after this period. Before this time it was possible for bourgeois revolutions such as that in the U.S. in 1776 to occur. In this type of bourgeois revolution the bourgeoisie of the rebelling nation could in fact create a state which was capitalist, but not aligned with any imperial power. Once imperialism became a world system any country that engaged in revolution had to either be anti-imperialist in focus or merely interested in exchanging one form of being lackeys to imperialists for another. This also meant that any country which staged an anti-imperialist revolution was by nature aiding with the international proletarian revolution. The Russian Revolution provided the model for proletarian revolution and because of its unique geographical position provided a link between the proletariat of Western Europe and the struggling oppressed nations of the East.

Lenin concretely defined his time as the age of imperialism in his work of 1916, Imperialism, the Highest Stage of Capitalism. He was, however, even more noted for his detailed analysis of how a revolution should be organized. Lenin was uncompromising on two points which were sources of great doubt amongst socialists of his time: 1) the leading force of the revolution must be a vanguard party comprised of professional revolutionaries. The party must represent the interests of the proletariat and must have a single political line rather than be a conglomeration of people with different points of view. 2) revolution could only be achieved through violently overthrowing the government and setting up the dictatorship of the proletariat. It could not be achieved through economic and electoral reform.

Mao Tse-Tung thought he could be described as the science of Marxism-Leninism in the era of national liberation struggles. Mao took Lenin's organizational concepts in a semi-industrialized country (Russia) and applied them to a colonized country totally immersed in feudalism.

Up until the Chinese Revolution the peasants in underdeveloped countries had been given a subordinate role in the revolution. Even though Lenin had put forth the idea of a United Front based on an alliance between the peasants and the proletariat, the Russian Revolution was primarily focused on the cities. After the defeats in 1927 Mao took his party and army to the countryside and organized his base among the peasantry. He still believed the urban proletariat would eventually be in the leadership of the revolution, but he did not orient his efforts toward them.

In setting up a model for national liberation struggles, Mao developed the idea of the two-stage revolution, a model which has been closely followed by the people of Viet Nam and Cambodia. Mao based his two-stage theory on a class analysis of colonized countries. In countries dominated by imperialism Mao saw the existence of five classes: 1) landlords -- this was composed of two parts--big landlords who were lackeys of imperialism and were the main people pressing up the feudalistic system and the smaller landlords whose relationship to imperialism was ambiguous. Mao saw big landlords as definite enemies of the revolution and viewed small landlords as possible allies of the revolution during its anti-imperialist phase. 2) the bourgeoisie-- like the landlord class, the bourgeoisie had two components -- the big or comprador bourgeoisie who ran business for the imperialists in China and were total enemies of the people and the national bourgeoisie who were also exploiters of the people but at the same time were often exploited by the imperialists. Mao viewed the national bourgeoisie as possible allies in kicking out the imperialists. 3) the petit bourgeoisie -- these were the small capitalists who were not totally revolutionary in potential but were much more the victims of imperialism than exploiters of the people. Mao saw the most progressive elements of the petit bourgeoisie as having the potential to become communist revolutionaries. 4) the peasants -- the peasantry comprised 80 per cent of the Chinese people and Mao viewed the poorest elements among the peasantry as the "main contingent of China's revolutionary forces". 5) the proletariat-- seen by Mao as "the basic motive force of the Chinese Revolution".

In the first stage of ^{revolution} Mao saw the struggle as one to kick the imperialists and their lackeys out of the country and establish a democracy. The strategy for this struggle was a protracted people's guerrilla war led by an alliance of the peasantry, the proletariat, and the revolutionary elements of the petit bourgeoisie. Mao also saw some people among the national bourgeoisie as participants in a United Front against imperialism but was careful to emphasize that the party must be in the leadership of the revolution. The culmination of the first stage of the revolution was a joint dictatorship of the peasants, the proletariat, and the revolutionary petit bourgeoisie under a mixed economy (big industries nationalized and big farms nationalized but a significant amount of property remaining in private hands). This "new democratic" phase is seen as the period when the foundations for socialism are built. This stage of the revolution ended in China in the mid 50's. The second stage is the socialist stage where virtually the entire economy is

In recent times, Focoists have been forced to make certain changes in their strategy. The Korymbos cause the CIA and friends are determined not to permit another Cuba to come down. One of the major changes in the Foco theory has been the move to the cities. In Argentina and Brazil, nearly all guerrillas now operate out of the cities. Other organizational changes have occurred also. For instance, the ERP in Argentina has a party which operates totally underground.

No matter what their strategy, most Focoists have received little backing from either China or the USSR. Their orientation toward "spontaneous" actions rather than protracted people's war has alienated them somewhat from China and their orientation toward war at all has alienated them from the USSR.

TROTSKYISM

The roots of the split between Trotsky and Stalin lie in the debate that occurred in Russia in the late 1920's around the issue of "socialism in one country". At the time both Leon and Joe believed that the Russian proletariat had four main allies: 1) the Russian peasant 2) the proletariat of Western Europe 3) the oppressed, colonized nations 4) conflicts amongst the capitalist countries. Stalin focused his attention on developing an alliance with the peasantry and forging "socialism in one country", Russia. Trotsky held that socialism could not exist in one country and that it was hopeless for Russia to try to become socialist until proletarian revolutions had occurred in Western Europe. Trotsky had a theory called permanent revolution which held that no country could become socialist until the whole world was, therefore socialists must push for a permanent state of revolution throughout the world rather than dealing with building their own country.

Because of their orientation toward permanent revolution Trotskyists today do not believe that it is fruitful for colonized nations to conduct anti-imperialist wars of national liberation. They see the only valid struggle as that of the proletariat against the bourgeoisie on an international level. Thus, any revolution which does not immediately set up a pure form of socialism (rather than the "bastardized" versions that were initiated in Russia in the 20's and China in 1949) is of no value. In practice this leads to positions such as that which occurred when Trotskyists proclaimed that the signing of the Paris Peace Agreement represented a collusion of the interests of the proletariat of South Viet Nam.

Contemporary Trotskyists ~~are~~ ^{only} like Cuba among the socialist countries of the world. This is because they see that the Cuban revolution was socialist almost from the outset. It was not two distinct stages as in China. They view this as a validation of their way of looking at things rather than an occurrence which came about because of a specific set of historical conditions, the most important of which was probably that the U.S. didn't support Batista.

Anarchists' basic difference with Communists is that they do not see the need for an intermediate stage of socialism based on a centralized, planned economy before there can be a purely communist state where the "withering away of the state" can occur.

...of the proletariat was similarly applied in Russia. This, in passing, explains why the revolution in Russia brought the proletariat to power. In previous revolutions it usually happened that the workers did all the fighting at the barricades, shed their blood and overthrew the old order, but power passed into the hands of the bourgeoisie, which oppressed and exploited the workers. That was the case in England and in France. That was the case in Germany. In Russia, however, things took a different turn. In Russia, the workers did not merely represent the shock troops of the revolution. While serving as the shock troops of the revolution, the Russian proletariat at the same time strove for hegemony, for the political leadership of all the exploited masses of town and country, rallying them around itself, detaching them from the bourgeoisie and politically isolating the bourgeoisie. Being the leader of the exploited masses, the Russian proletariat all the time waged a fight to seize power in its own hands and utilize it in its own interests against the bourgeoisie and against capitalism. This explains why every powerful outbreak of the revolution in Russia, as in October 1905, and in February 1917, gave rise to Soviets of Workers' Deputies as the embryo of the new apparatus of power—the function of which would be to crush the bourgeoisie—as against the bourgeois parliament, the old apparatus of power—the function of which was to crush the proletariat. On two occasions the bourgeoisie in Russia tried to restore the bourgeois parliament and put an end to the soviets: in August 1917, at the time of the "Preliminary Parliament" prior to the capture of power by the Bolsheviks, and in January 1918, at the time of the "Constituent Assembly" after power had been seized by the proletariat. On both occasions these efforts failed. Why? Because the bourgeoisie was already politically isolated. The vast masses of the toilers regarded the proletariat as the sole leader of the revolution and the soviets had already been tried and tested by the masses as their own workers' government. For the proletariat to have substituted these soviets by a bourgeois parliament would have been tantamount to committing suicide. It is not surprising, therefore, that bourgeois parliamentarism did not take root in Russia. That is why the revolution in Russia led to the establishment of the rule of the proletariat. These were the results of the application of the Leninist system of the hegemony of the proletariat in revolution.

Fifth: the national and colonial question. In analyzing the events in Ireland, India, China and the Central European countries like Poland and Hungary, in their time, Marx and Engels developed the basic, initial ideas of the national and colonial question. In his works Lenin based himself on these ideas. Lenin's new contribution in this field was: (a) that he gathered these ideas into one symmetrical system of views on national and colonial revolutions in the epoch of imperialism; (b) that he connected the national and colonial question with the question of overthrowing imperialism, and (c) that he declared the national and colonial question to be a component part of the general question of international proletarian revolution.

Finally: the question of the party of the proletariat. Marx and Engels gave the main outlines of the idea of the Party as being the vanguard of the proletariat, without which (the party), the proletariat could not achieve its emancipation, could not capture power or reconstruct capitalist society. Lenin's new contribution to this theory was that he developed these outlines further and applied them to the new conditions of the proletarian struggle in the period of imperialism and showed: (a) that the party is a higher form of the class organization of the proletariat as compared with the other forms of proletarian organization (labor unions, co-operative societies, state organization) and, moreover, its function is to generalize and direct the work of these organizations; (b) that the dictatorship of the proletariat may be realized only through the party as its directing force; (c) that the dictatorship of the proletariat can be complete only if it is led by a single party, the Communist Party, which does not and must not share leadership with any other party; and (d) that without iron discipline in the party, the tasks of the dictatorship of the proletariat to crush the exploiters and to transform class society into socialist society cannot be fulfilled.

This, in the main, is the new contribution which Lenin made in his works; he developed and made more concrete the doctrines of Marx in a manner applicable to the new conditions of the proletarian struggle in the period of imperialism.

That is why we say that Leninism is Marxism of the epoch of imperialism and proletarian revolutions.

From this it is clear that Leninism cannot be separated from Marxism, still less can it be contrasted with Marxism.

ing throughout the world from America to Japan and from Sweden to South Africa. The proletariat is being enlightened and educated in waging the class struggle, it is ridding itself of the prejudices of bourgeois society, consolidating itself ever more closely and learning to take the measure of its successes; it is hardening its forces and growing irresistibly.

Anarchists see their struggle as a revolt against all forms of authority which dominate the freedom of the individual. Thus, they often view the centralized power of a socialist state as being as sinister as the authority of a capitalist state. "the best government is no government" is a common anarchist phrase.

Organizationally, anarchists believe that the best forms of organization are those which spring out of the spontaneous consciousness of the masses. They see all groups which label themselves as vanguard as containing the seeds of state authoritarianism. However, since anarchists do place an emphasis on anti-authoritarianism and spontaneity, they do tend to be people of action. Hence, it is no accident that anarchists were some of the most violent enemies of the U.S. government in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

SOCIAL DEMOCRATS

Social democrats believe there is no need for armed struggle in order for socialism to come into existence. They place their highest priority on electoral campaigns and reformist trade union organizing. They reject the notion of a vanguard party advocating a single political line but rather see the party as a mass organization open to various points of view. The main heavy against whom social democrats rebel is Stalin. They see the purges of the 30's in Russia as one of history's most heinous crimes and as the inevitable result of democratic centralism.

In the contemporary left, the New American Movement is the most prominent group of this type. The Communist Party, USA falls into this category strategically, although they would firmly reject the label of social democrats.

The most obvious example of the shortcomings of this outlook is what happened to Salvador Allende in Chile because of his orientation toward gradual reformist measures. There is an interesting contrast between his strategy and that of the Communists in Portugal where even though the Socialist Party (social democrats) were voted into office, the Armed Forces Movement and the Communist Party have been gradually undermining the power of the socialists and pushing the country toward the dictatorship of the proletariat. This strategy on the part of the communists has almost totally eliminated the possibility of a right-wing coup in the near future.

LENIN'S CONTRIBUTION TO MARXISM*

QUESTION 1. What new principles have Lenin and the Communist Party added to Marxism in practice? Would it be correct to say that Lenin believed in "constructive revolution" whereas Marx was more inclined to wait for the culmination of the development of economic forces?

ANSWER: I think that Lenin "added" no "new principles" to Marxism nor did Lenin abolish any of the "old" principles of Marxism. Lenin was and remained a loyal and consistent pupil of Marx and Engels, and wholly and entirely based himself on the principles of Marxism. But Lenin did not merely carry out the doctrines of Marx and Engels. He developed these doctrines further. What does that mean? It means that he developed the doctrines of Marx and Engels in accordance with the new conditions of development, with the new phase of capitalism, with imperialism. This means that in developing further the doctrines of Marx in the new conditions of the class struggle, Lenin contributed to the general treasury of Marxism something new as compared with what was created by Marx and Engels and with what they could create in the pre-imperialist period of capitalism. Moreover, Lenin's contribution to Marxism is based wholly and entirely on the principles laid down by Marx and Engels. In that sense we speak of Leninism as Marxism of the epoch of imperialism and proletarian revolutions. Here are a number of questions in the sphere of which Lenin contributed something new in developing further the doctrines of Marx:

First: the question of monopolistic capitalism—of imperialism as the new phase of capitalism. In Capital, Marx and Engels analyzed the basis of capitalism. But Marx and Engels lived in the pre-monopolistic period of capitalism, in the period of the smooth struggle. The workers of the more advanced countries are rising side by side with us. Hard battles are still in store for them and ourselves. The yoke of capital will be broken in the common struggle and socialism will finally triumph!

THE THREE SOURCES AND THREE COMPONENT PARTS OF MARXISM

The teaching of Marx evokes throughout the civilized world the greatest hostility and hatred on the part of all bourgeois science (both official and liberal) which regards Marxism as something in the nature of a "pernicious sect." No other attitude is to be expected, since there can be no "impartial" social science in a society which is built up on the class struggle. All official and liberal science defends wage-slavery in one way or another, whereas Marxism has declared relentless war on that slavery. To expect science to be impartial in a society of wage-slavery is as silly and naive as to expect impartiality from employers on the question as to whether the workers' wages should be increased by decreasing the profits of capital.

However, this is not all. The history of philosophy and that of social science shows with perfect clearness that there is nothing in Marxism resembling "sectarianism" in the sense of a secluded, fossilized doctrine originating somewhere away from the high road of development of world civilization. On the contrary, the genius of Marx manifested itself in that he provided the answers to questions which had already been put by the advanced brains of humanity.

His teaching came as a direct and immediate continuation of the teaching of the greatest representatives of philosophy, political economy, and socialism.

The teaching of Marx is all-powerful because it is true. It is complete and harmonious, providing men with a consistent view of the universe, which cannot be reconciled with any superstition, any reaction, any defense of bourgeois oppression. It is the lawful successor of the best that has been created by humanity in the nineteenth century—German philosophy, English political economy, and French socialism.

It is these three sources, which are also the three component parts of Marxism, that we will briefly dwell upon.

I

The philosophy of Marxism is materialism. Throughout the recent history of Europe, and particularly at the end of the eighteenth century in France, which was the scene of the decisive battle against every kind of medieval rubbish, against serfdom in institutions and ideas, materialism proved to be the only consistent philosophy, true to all the teachings of natural science, hostile to superstitions, cant, etc. The enemies of democracy tried, therefore, with all their energy, to "overthrow," undermine and defame materialism, and defended various forms of philosophic idealism, which always leads, in one way or another, to the defense and support of religion.

Marx and Engels always defended philosophic materialism in the most determined manner, and repeatedly explained the profound error of every deviation from this basis. Their views are more clearly and fully expounded in the works of Engels, Ludwig Feuerbach and Anti-Dühring, which, like the Communist Manifesto, are household books for every conscious worker.

However, Marx did not stop at the materialism of the eighteenth century but moved philosophy forward. He enriched it by the achievements of German classical philosophy especially by Hegel's system, which in its turn had led to the materialism of Feuerbach. Of these the main achievement is dialectics, i.e., the doctrine of development in its fuller, deeper form, free from one-sidedness—the doctrine, also, of the relativity of human knowledge that provides us with a reflection of eternally developing matter. The latest discoveries of natural science—radium, electrons, the transmutation of elements—are a remarkable confirmation of the dialectical materialism of Marx, despite the doctrines of bourgeois philosophers with their "new" returns to old and rotten idealism.

While deepening and developing philosophic materialism, Marx carried it to its conclusion; he extended its perception of nature to the perception of human society. The historical materialism of Marx represented the greatest conquest of scientific thought. Chaos and arbitrariness, which reigned until then in the views on history and politics, were replaced by a strikingly consistent and harmonious scientific theory, which shows how out of one order of social life another and higher order develops, in consequence of the growth of the productive forces—how capitalism, for instance, grows out of serfdom.

Just as the cognition of man reflects nature (i.e., developing matter) which exists independently of him, so also the social cognition of man (i.e., the various views and doctrines—philosophic, religious, political, etc.) reflects the economic order of society. Political institutions are a superstructure on the economic foundation. We see, for example, that the various political forms of modern European states serve the purpose of strengthening the domination of the bourgeoisie over the proletariat.

The philosophy of Marx completes in itself philosophic materialism which has provided humanity, and especially the working class, with a powerful instrument of knowledge.

II

Having recognized that the economic order is the foundation upon which the political superstructure is erected, Marx devoted all the greater attention to the study of that economic order. The principal work of Marx, Capital, is devoted to a study of the economic order of modern, i.e., capitalist society.

Classical political economy, before Marx, was built up in England, the most developed capitalist country. Adam Smith and David Ricardo, in their investigations of the economic order, laid the foundations of the labor theory of value. Marx continued their work. He strictly proved and consistently developed this theory. He showed that the value of every commodity is determined by the quantity of socially necessary labor time spent in its production.

Where the bourgeois economists saw a relation of things (the exchange of one commodity for another) Marx revealed a relation between men. The exchange of commodities expresses the connection between individual producers by means of the market. Money signifies that this connection is becoming closer and closer, inseparably combining the entire economic life of the individual producers into one whole. Capital signifies a further development of this connection: the labor power of man becomes a commodity. The wage laborer sells his labor power to the owner of land, of factories and instruments of labor. The worker uses one part of the labor day to cover the expenditure for the maintenance of himself and his family (wages), and the other part of the day he toils without remuneration and creates surplus value for the capitalist, which is the source of profit, the source of wealth of the capitalist class.

The doctrine of surplus value is the cornerstone of the economic theory of Marx.

Capital, created by the labor of the worker, presses upon the workers, ruins the petty owners and creates an army of unemployed. In industry the victory of large-scale production may be seen at once, but we also see the same phenomenon in agriculture: the superiority of big capitalist agriculture becomes greater, the application of machinery grows, peasant economy is caught in the noose of money-capital, it declines and becomes ruined under the burden of a backward technique. In agriculture, the forms of decline of petty production are different, but the decline itself is an indisputable fact.

By beating petty production, capital leads to the increase of the productivity of labor and to the establishment of a monopoly position for associations of the biggest capitalists. Production itself becomes more and more social; hundreds of thousands and millions of workers are linked up in a systematic economic organism, but the product of the collective labor is appropriated by a handful of capitalists. Anarchy of production, crises, a furious hunt after markets, and the insecurity of existence for the masses of population are on the increase.

While increasing the dependence of the workers upon capital, the capitalist system creates the great power of combined labor.

Marx traced the development of capitalism from the first germs of commodity economy and simple exchange, to its highest forms, to large-scale production.

And the experience of all countries, whether old or new, clearly shows year after year, to an ever greater number of workers, the truth of Marx's teaching.

Capitalism has been victorious all over the world, but this victory is only the eve of the victory of labor over capital.

III

After the overthrow of serfdom, when a "free" capitalist society appeared, it was at once discovered that this freedom signified a new system of oppression and exploitation of the toilers. Various socialist doctrines immediately began to arise as a reflection of this oppression and protest against it. But socialism in its first origin was utopian. It criticized the capitalist society, it condemned it and damned it, it dreamed of its destruction, it drew fantastic pictures of a better order and endeavored to convince the rich of the wickedness of exploitation.

But utopian socialism was unable to show a real way out. It could not explain either the essence of wage-slavery under capitalism, or discover the laws of its development, or find the social force which was capable of becoming the creator of a new society.

In the meantime, the stormy revolution which accompanied the fall of feudalism and serfdom everywhere in Europe, and especially in France, revealed ever more clearly the struggle of classes as the basis of the whole development and its motive force.

Not a single victory of political freedom over the class of feudal lords was won without desperate resistance. Not a single capitalist country was established on a more or less free and democratic basis without a life and death struggle between the different classes of capitalist society.

Marx was a genius because he was able before anyone else to draw from these facts and consistently elaborate the conclusion which world history teaches. This conclusion is the doctrine of the class struggle.

People always were and always will be the stupid victims of deceit and self-deceit in politics, as long as they have not learned to discover the interests of one or another of the classes behind any moral, religious, political and social phrases, declarations and promises. The supporters of reforms and improvements will always be fooled by the defenders of the old, as long as they will not realize that every old institution, however absurd and rotten it may appear, is kept in being by the forces of one or the other of the ruling classes. And there is only one way of breaking the resistance of these classes, and that is to find, in the very society which surrounds us, and to enlighten and organize for the struggle, the forces which can and, by their social position, must form the power capable of sweeping away the old and of establishing the new.

Only the philosophic materialism of Marx showed the proletariat the way out of the spiritual slavery in which all oppressed classes have languished up to the present. Only the economic theory of Marx explained the real position of the proletariat in the general system of capitalism.

The independent organizations of the proletariat are multiply-evolution of capitalism and its "peaceful" expansion throughout the whole world. This old phase of capitalism came to a close towards the end of the nineteenth and the beginning of the twentieth centuries, when Marx and Engels had already passed away. Clearly Marx and Engels could only guess at the new conditions of the development of capitalism which arose out of the new phase of capitalism which succeeded the old phase. In the imperialistic, monopolistic phase of development the smooth evolution of capitalism gave way to spasmodic, cataclysmic development, the unevenness of development and the contradictions of capitalism emerged with particular force; the struggle for markets and spheres for the investment of capital conducted amidst conditions of extreme unevenness of development made periodical imperialist wars for a periodical redistribution of the world and of spheres of influence inevitable. The service Lenin rendered, and, consequently, his new contribution, was that on the basis of the main postulates enunciated in Capital he made a fundamental Marxian analysis of imperialism as the final phase of capitalism, he exposed its ulcers and the conditions of its inevitable doom. On the basis of this analysis arose Lenin's well-known postulate that the conditions of imperialism made possible the victory of socialism in separate capitalist countries.

Second: the question of the dictatorship of the proletariat. The fundamental idea of the dictatorship of the proletariat as the political domination of the proletariat and as a method of overthrowing the reign of capital by violence was created by Marx and Engels. Lenin's new contribution in this field was that (a) utilizing the experience of the Paris Commune and the Russian Revolution, he discovered the Soviet form of government as the state form of the dictatorship of the proletariat; (b) he deciphered the formula of the dictatorship of the proletariat from the point of view of the problem of the allies of the proletariat, and defined the dictatorship of the proletariat as a special form of class alliance between the proletariat, which is the leader, and the exploited masses of the non-proletarian classes (the peasantry, etc.) who are led; (c) he particularly emphasized the fact that the dictatorship of the proletariat is a higher type of democracy in class society, i.e., proletarian democracy, which expresses the interests of the majority (the exploited) as against capitalist democracy which expresses the interests of the minority (the exploiters).

Third: the question of the forms and methods of the successful building up of socialism in the period of dictatorship of the proletariat, in the period of transition from capitalism to socialism in a country encircled by capitalist states. Marx and Engels regarded the period of the dictatorship of the proletariat as a more or less prolonged period replete with revolutionary conflicts and civil wars in the course of which the proletariat in power would take the economic, political, cultural and organizational measures necessary for the purpose of establishing a new socialist society, a society without classes and without a state, in place of the old capitalist society. Lenin wholly and entirely based himself on these fundamental postulates of Marx and Engels. Lenin's new contribution in this field was: (a) he proved that it was possible to construct complete socialist society in a land of the dictatorship of the proletariat encircled by imperialist states, provided the country is not crushed by the military intervention of the surrounding capitalist states; (b) he outlined the concrete path of economic policy (the New Economic Policy) by which the proletariat, being in command of the economic key posts of industry, land, transport, the banks, etc.), links up socialized industry with agriculture ("the bond between industry and peasant agriculture") and thus leads the whole of national economy towards socialism; (c) he outlined the concrete channels by which the bulk of the peasantry is gradually brought into the line of socialist construction through the medium of the co-operative societies, which, in the hands of the proletarian dictatorship, represent a powerful instrument for the transformation of petty peasant economy and for the re-education of the main masses of the peasantry in the spirit of socialism.

Fourth: the question of the hegemony of the proletariat in revolution, in all popular revolutions—in the revolution against tsarism as well as in the revolution against capitalism. Marx and Engels presented the main outlines of the idea of the hegemony of the proletariat. Lenin's new contribution in this field was that he further developed and expanded these outlines into a symmetrical system of the hegemony of the proletariat, into a symmetrical system of proletarian leadership of the masses of the toilers in town and country not only in the fight for the overthrow of tsarism and capitalism, but also in the work of building up socialism under the dictatorship of the proletariat. It is well known that, thanks to Lenin and his party, the idea of the hege-

a George Jackson Cultural Institute in Africa. We know it was the intentions of all these con artists to extort public funds supplied by the C.I.A., using the Hearst Foundation as a front. After infiltrating the prison underground in order to destroy the revolutionary guerilla movement, funds for the pay off were to be channeled to petty bourgeois elements in the U.S. owned puppet government of Mali. The Malian front men were later to split the money with the original three thieves, El-Maalik, Westbrook, and Carter after engaging in a phony restoration project for Timbuktu. They had no fear of their plot being discovered since they knew the U.S. government would never release convicts for exile to Africa--a perfect international scheme of extortion and embezzlement.

We demand that Maalik El-Maalik, the peoples criminal enemy number one, answer to the above mentioned charges within three days or forfeit his life! We urge that the media publish this indictment in full so that the manifest contradictions of Maalik- El-Maalik are exposed to the people so that he is judged accordingly. Whether the press will print the truth and give due justice to this traitor or the revolutionary forces of the SLA and NWLF will perform this duty through a peoples execution mandate.

We call on the Black Guerilla Family to support all the above charges so that we may purge the community of all its paid lackey dogs. We must drive all ruling class parasites and all traitors of the people from within the midst of our oives.

We send our warmest revolutionary greetings and love to all comrades enslaved in the capitalist concentration camps of America, and we send greetings of solidarity to the Black Liberation Army, the Black Guerilla Army, the Black Guerilla Family, the Red Guerilla Family, the Fronte de Liberation Chicano, the Fuerzas Armadas de Liberation Nacional de Puerto Rico, the Weather Underground Organization, and to all freedom fighters who confront and struggle until all manifest contradictions are resolved. Towards total liberation.

S.L.A. Strategic Command Post

his men write the Alternative House proposal and rush it through for funding with a secret promise that Paul Cook be eliminated. Thru C.I.A. Bill Banks, U. C. Chancellor Bowker, acting in approval with the Hearst, Procunier, Reagan, gave El-Maalik special salary allocation in addition to the funding that he was already receiving thru the Department of Corrections. Similarly, thru ex-convict pig agent Bill Carter the Department of Corrections conspired with El-Maalik to eliminate Paul from participation in the S.A.T.E. Organization upon its funding. Presently, Carter and Ashford, in collaboration with another swindler, Ernie SA Allen, are in control of the Thresholds project, which is a government spy cover thru which S.A.T.E. funds are being used for counter insurgency payoffs among black youth--We ask all black youths to closely watch the actions of these parasitic capitalist exploiters of the people!

After receiving the funds, El-Maalik set about on several clandestine schemes to eliminate Cook. On one such occasion El-Maalik lured Paul into a closed S.A.T.E. meeting in the basement of one of the Alternative House's at 526-32nd Street. Paul was intentionally provoked, after which hostile S.A.T.E. members fired upon him, Paul barely escaping with his life.

Eventually, one of El-Maalik's three wives (Maalik is also a male chauvinist who is practicing polygamy), Christine Knockum, became angered at being forced into prostitution and made Paul and Charollett aware of the death plot that El-Maalik had planned for the both of them (El-Maalik, the ex-professor turned pimp had brutally beat beaten her for not bringing in enough money). Paul became inflamed and threatened to expose every pig agent involved where upon El-Maalik murdered Cook right on the spot. Reliable San Francisco news sources have disclosed that El-Maalik had used one of the Alternative Houses for a drug-prostitution ring operation.

After being released on first degree murder, El-Maalik borrowed money against the Alternative House account, shut down the halfway house operation, kicked out all the ex-convicts (leaving them no place to go) and used both borrowed and grant monies for himself and his family.

The manner in which El-Maalik cold bloodedly eliminated Comrade Paul Cook can only be described as a sheer gangland execution murder, an assassination slaying in which El-Maalik pumped two bullets into a man before his wife, children, brothers, sisters, mother and father, in front of the victim's entire family.

Who but a police SA agent could shoot a man in the back, then coldly walk over and blow off the person's head and afterward be allowed to go scott free? Documented evidence of which we are prepared to share shows that before, during, and after the murder trial, El-Maalik was in constant touch with the Oakland Police, often frequenting their meetings. He was classified as a "Special Advisor" under the full, documented, written, and documented consent of Oakland Police Chief Charles Guin. It is no surprise that during his trial several parole agents in addition to a police man testified in El-Maalik's behalf.

On January 4, 1974, the body of Charollett Cook was discovered at Thornton Beach in Daly City. She had been strangled, shot in the head and dumped over a cliff. Sources have confirmed that El-Maalik was directly involved in her slaying.

Later, in the same month, on January 21, 1975 El-Maalik was seen attending a Zionist Banquet at the San Francisco Hilton in support of San Francisco mafia chief Joseph Alioto's bid for the governorship. El-Maalik is identified in photos along with an unidentified female companion sitting as special guests with several San Francisco Zionist judges. Sources state that El-Maalik is hooked up with the Zionist movement under the name of Ben Moalik thru his discipleship with Zionist leader Meyer Goldberg, a disciple of the late Rabbi Cook, the first rabbi to the present Zionist state of Israel. Meyer Goldberg is known to have vast interests in the Union of South Africa and was a close friend of the late U.C. Chnacelloc Sproul.

On June 23, 1975 El-Maalik held a press conference at U.C. Berkeley in which he indicted the S.L.A. and the N.W.L.F. for the death of Popeye Jackson. He totally refused to acknowledge our denial of any participation in that matter. In doing so he acted in a manner that was destructive to the entire guerilla underground. In falsely proclaiming to speak for the black prisoner population he vainly attempted to pit the black convict class against their comrades in the revolutionary underground.

In an earlier appearance El-Maalik had joined in a so-called strategy session with C.I.A. agent Colton Westbrook and Uncle Tom ex-convict police agent Bill Carter and tried to bait forth comrade Tania and the Harris in a swindling pretense of forming a

To: The BIA, ECA, BOP, ROP, FLO, PALNPR, WUO, and to all other guerilla organizations of the people, in and out of Amerika's political prisons

Indicted: MAALIK EL-MAALIK, the peoples enemy number one

The BIA strategic command conjoins with the NWLF in bringing before the people manifest contradictory traitors to the cause. Maalik El-Maalik, a self proclaimed Lords of Lords, is a fake and a phony, a parasitic capitalist dog, an exploiter of the people.

As a petty bourgeois swine striving to achieve the ~~goals~~ capitalist goals of a feudal landlord he has not only murdered in cold blood at least two guerilla soldiers of the Peoples Forces but ~~is~~ also is ~~using~~ presently using terror tactics to forcibly evict three beautiful black revolutionary Muslim sisters from one of his many secretly owned slum dwellings.

Under the deception of a fictitious prison rehabilitation organization call "Africans in Slavery", El-Maalik is undermining the people, underhandlingly soliciting funds and using the peoples money for personal gratification and self gain. We have evidence to show that at the Berkeley Jazz Festival, El-Maalik worked with the hypocrite opportunist Cecil Williams and raised close to a thousand dollars, most of which he used to buy an automobile and the rest of which he deposited into a secret bank account disguised under the heading of "Convicts to Africa Fund".

In 1972 under this same fakery of the prison rehabilitation, the pig agent El-Maalik received funds from an assortment of government intelligence front organizations. Supposedly, he received these funds to run the Alternative House project, a counter insurgent spy operative, camouflaged as a community run half way house for ex-convicts. But evidence shows that this so-called community convict rehabilitation center was initiated, monitored and kept keep in tab under the secret control of the University of California (which was working directly in the interest of the race supremacist government of the Union of South Africa), the Oakland Police Department, the State Department of Corrections, and the CCCJ. In fact, El-Maalik had several meetings secret meetings with C.I.A. pig operative Raymond Procurier. Present in many of these meetings was ex convict snitch Les Ashford, an ex-Panther informant turned pig. Raymond Procurier had personally arranged for Ashford's release from prison, later which he, Ashford, was immediately hired as a state parole agent upon the recommendation of the then University of California Professor, Maalik El-Maalik. Ashford, coincidentally, is married to U.C. vice chancellor John Raleigh's daughter. We have copies of letters to show that this pig agent Ashford communicated with this U.C. Vice Chancellors daughter during the same time Procurier and the F.B.I. got him a release from prison.

Again, it was through El-Maalik that the C.I.A. pig operative Colton Westbrook first made his appearance in Vacaville.

Paul Cook was one of the pig establishment's most bitter enemies. He was a prison revolutionary, an ex-cell mate of Comrade George Jackson and a close friend of comrade Russell Magee. Paul had been sent from the inside prison guerillas to form international ties with Latin and African guerilla movements through Eldridge Cleaver. Comrade George Jackson had devised plans to raise an invasion army for an assault upon the Nazi Fascist regime of the Union of South Africa. Paul was close to comrade Jonathan, and the whole prison population at San Quentin had gone on strike to get comrade Paul Cook released from prison. The snitch Ashford had also been a cellmate of Paul. He knew of Paul's intentions, made a deal and let those intentions be known to the F.B.I. and in return got himself released from prison. He sold out!

In an August 6, 1971 memo Warden Nelson advised El-Maalik to work closely with the parole department through its outside agencies and at the same time when mentioning, Paul gave El-Maalik a reason and an order to exclude, and therefore, eventually, eliminated comrade Paul. Later on, Procurier, (upon Nelsons recommendation) had one of
